THE LUDARIUM · TEACH SHEET

Teach One Piece Card Game in ten minutes

2 players · Varies; store events allow 35 minutes a game

The goal: Attack the opposing Leader until it takes damage when its player has no Life cards left.

On your turn

1. Refresh: given DON!! return to your cost area; stand every card up.
2. Draw 1 card. The first player skips this on turn one.
3. DON!!: add 2 to your cost area. The first player adds 1 on turn one.
4. Main: play cards, use effects, give DON!!, and attack, in any order.
5. End: resolve end of turn effects, then pass the turn.

Three tips for your first game

1. No battles on either player's first turn, and new Characters wait a turn to attack.
2. Save Counter cards in hand as your Life runs low.
3. A rested Character can be attacked, so think before you swing with it.

Setup

1. Each player: Leader face up, 50-card deck shuffled, 10 DON!! cards in a stack.
2. Rock-paper-scissors. The winner chooses to go first or second.
3. Draw 5. Each player may redraw once; the first player decides first.
4. Put cards equal to your Leader's Life face down as your Life cards.

Scoring

- Attack: rest your Leader or a Character. Target their Leader or a rested Character.
- The defender may use one Blocker, then play Counters from hand.
- Attacker's power equal to or higher than the target's wins.
- Leader hit: the top Life card goes to hand, or its Trigger is used.
- Character hit: it is K.O.'d and goes to the trash.
- Each given DON!! adds 1000 power, on your own turn only.

Game end: A player loses when their Leader takes damage with 0 Life cards left, or when their deck has 0 cards.

Free course: theludarium.com/academy/one-piece-card-game/

Unofficial. Not affiliated with or endorsed by Bandai, Shueisha, or Toei Animation. The ONE PIECE CARD GAME is published by Bandai. ONE PIECE © Eiichiro Oda/Shueisha, Toei Animation. Rules as of the ONE PIECE CARD GAME Comprehensive Rules, version 1.2.1 (last updated August 28, 2026), with the Official Rule Manual and Tournament Rules Manual.